

CINCINNATI

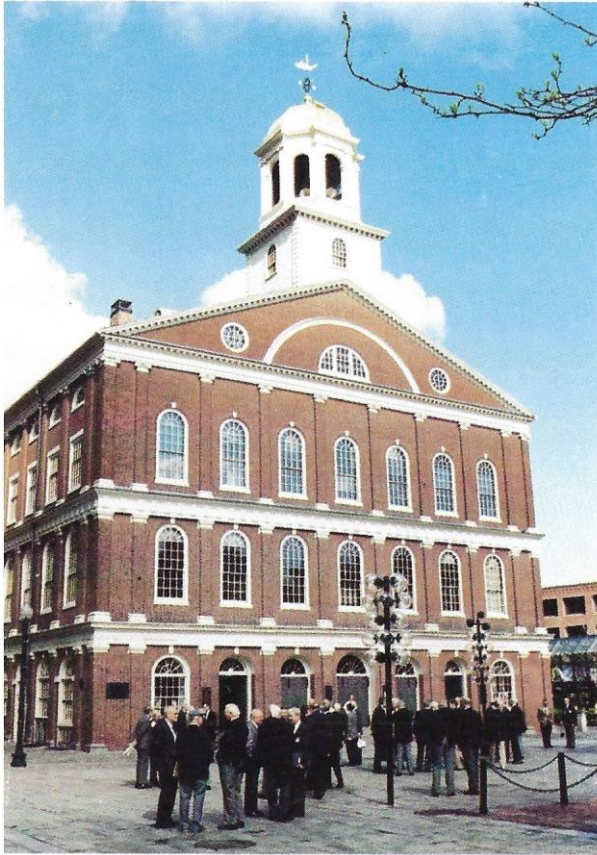

FOURTEEN

Newsletter of the Society of the Cincinnati

October 1995

Volume XXXII, No. 1

Courtesy of Francis Gorham Brigham, III

FANEUIL HALL

Nicknamed the Cradle of Liberty, the hall was built in 1742 and given to the City of Boston by merchant Peter Faneuil. It has been used as a meeting place and market ever since. Delegates gather before Faneuil Hall for The Second Session of the Triennial, May 20, 1995

PROCEEDINGS OF THE TRIENNIAL MEETING

The Proceedings of the two Sessions of the Triennial Meeting, May 19 and 20, 1995, which include the Proceedings of the Standing Committee, from October 1992 to May 1995 will be mailed to all Delegates and Alternates.

Any member wishing to receive a copy of the Proceedings should contact the Office of the Secretary General.

1995 TRIENNIAL

Triennial Delegates assemble for the First Session at Congregational Church in Exeter, New Hampshire.

Past President General Frank Mauran presents a Certificate of Appreciation to Secretary Philippus Miller, V, at the Second Session in Faneuil Hall.

(L. to R.) Chase Raiford; William Russell Raiford (NC); Wistie Miller; Robert Harris Sproat (PA) enjoy the luncheon at the Harvard Club.

Vice President William Russell Raiford presents the Diamond Rosette to Jean Hoyt Olinger, representing her father Past President General Harry Ramsay Hoyt.

THE STATE SOCIETY OF THE CINCINNATI OF PENNSYLVANIA

A long-standing goal is to make our members more familiar with Anderson House and its activities and to encourage use of its facilities. We found a pleasant and interesting way to do this last February. After talking with Clifford Lewis, III, President Bart Cox invited members of the Anderson House staff to speak to our Washington's Birthday Luncheon.

Four of the top people accepted: Sandra Prucher, Executive Director; William Trimble, House Manager; Katheleen Betts, Museum Director; and Sandra Powers, Library Consultant.

They arrived in Philadelphia before noon and, after a reception and luncheon, each one told the audience about her or his area of responsibility, describing the facilities and services offered. Some used slides to illustrate their talks.

